Excerpt: . . . The Iraq experience illustrates the need to expand cooperation and integration across U. S. agencies, but most especially among DoD, DoS, and USAID. Unlike other agencies, these three have missions that require them to operate primarily outside the United States and engage constantly with other governments and international entities. Steps have already been taken to move this integration forward. National Security Presidential Directive 44 and DoD Directive 3000. 05 both encourage interagency cooperation. USAID has created an office of military affairs to serve as a liaison to DoD. DoS, in response to NSPD-44, established the Office of the Coordinator for Reconstruction and Stabilization. USAID and DoS staff regularly attend military training exercises to share lessons learned and to brief military personnel on their responsibilities and capabilities. DoDs Joint Concept Development and Experimentation Office is currently looking at ways to improve civilian military planning. These steps, although important, are just a beginning. The experience of the...
