Unwilling to separate from the Establishment, and at the same time influenced by personal partiality, she secured the services of Episcopalian clergymen. Wesley and Whitefield were especially welcome in her pulpits. So were Romaine and Venn. There were two clergymen who threw themselves into the Methodist enterprise, and were willing to officiate in the Countess's chapels. Martin Madan, founder and first chaplain of the Lock Hospital, was one of them. Being at a coffee-house one evening he was asked to go and hear John Wesley, and then to return and imitate the manner of the preacher; for Madan. was a great mimic. When he listened to the text, Prepare to meet thy God, he was awestruck; and on coming...
