Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Pursuant to a congressional request, GAO provided information on workers compensation benefits, focusing on: (1) those benefits authorized by the Federal Employees Compensation Act (FECA); and (2) other workers compensation provisions for federal and state workers. GAO found that: (1) FECA provides the same types of benefits to injured federal workers as those provided by states, the Longshore and Harbor Worker s Compensation Act (LHWCA), and the District of Columbia workers compensation laws; (2) the principal workers compensation benefits paid to claimants under all of these laws are compensation and medical benefits; (3) less than 1 percent of FECA long-term beneficiaries receive compensation based on the authorized maximum benefit amount; (4) whereas FECA provides claimants with dependents additional benefits, other worker compensation plans do not; (5) an increase in benefits for dependents is provided when the claimant exceeds the authorized maximum benefit level; (6) FECA provides federal workers suffering from traumatic injuries with immediate salary continuation benefits for 45 days before a 3-day waiting period begins; and (7) under LHWCA and other state laws, injured workers must be out of work for 3 to 7 days before they can receive wage-loss benefits, and if they are ineligible for those benefits, their employers may offer them salary continuation or paid sick leave.
